Q: How to autogenerate a mysql database using Doctrine 2? I've installed the latest stable version of Doctrine 2 but I can't find a way to autogenerate a database, nor is there any documentation on the Doctrine website.

A: Use MySQL Workbench to connect to your MySQL server, and run queries, and it should create a table for you

A: To create a database in MySQL:

mysql> CREATE DATABASE db_name;

mysql> USE db_name; If you want to create a database using doctrine, you can use:

$this->_em->getConnection()->getDatabasePlatform()->createDatabaseScript('your_db');

A: you can use the Mysql Workbench to create the tables automatically Q: What was the name of the movie before "The Fly"? In the movie "The Fly" there is a scene where the mother gives birth to the child. A woman is stuck in the delivery room, covered with an entire blanket. As the doctor is trying to inject something into the woman's arm, I remember that the mother asks him what to call her child. He answers that it is a girl, so she replies that she would name it after her daughter in whose honor they started to use that name. I remember that the name of the girl was Claudia, and that it was a Spanish name. The movie ends right before the doctor wakes up the girl, and he introduces her to the mother. I think I saw this movie between 1990-2000. I do not remember the name of the movie, so the only reference I have to it is this one scene. I would appreciate if you help me to identify the movie. A: It's a Spanish film called Pueblo rico (1985). The Wikipedia article says that it is a dark comedy and that the movie is about the relationship between a travelling musician and the ill-fated teenaged daughter of a wealthy, eccentric family. And that it was directed by Jorge Grau, the man who would go on to direct the movie The Fly (1986), which was based
